REPORT NO. 25X1X

1. During the first week in May 1952, three types of small motorboats belonging to the Soviet Danube flotilla were seen in the Ujpest Basin just north of Budapest. The smallest was constructed of wood, similar to the Hungarian "Moloch", with a Soviet engine, and capable of carrying from four to six persons. The second type was also built of wood but was larger with a rounded deck covering the engine. The third type was a small minesweeper similar to those used by the Hungarian Navy during World War II. No weapons were observed.

2. The barracks along the north and northeast side of the Ujpest Basin, which originally houses Hungarian Naval units, are presently being used as an AVH stockade. The barracks are surrounded by wooden and wire fences and the entrance gate is guarded by AVH troops wearing blue hat bands. The barracks were occupied by Soviet Naval units for a short time during 1951 and later were occupied by Hungarian Naval units before being turned over to the AVH. The Soviet troops moved to the wooden barracks on the northwest corner of the Ujpest Basin and the Hungarian Naval units moved to Baja (Y6/328).

3. One Hungarian Naval battalion under the command of 1st Lt. Bela Szalma is presently located near Baja.
